WE NOMINATE

Philip Sheridan Collins, Princeton architect, who at age 32 — and in his second year as a licensed New Jersey architect — has established himself as a "young man of infinite promise" in a demanding, many-sided profession. Out of Trenton over the week-end came the announcement from Governor Richard J. Hughes that the unassuming Collins was the unanimous selection of a 5-member Jury of Awards as architect for the New Jersey Tercentenary Pavilion at the New York 1964-65 World's Fair. One of four finalists (another was Princeton's John A. Dichl), Collins was "winner-take-all" in a state-wide competition involving 115 New Jersey architects, including representatives of nationally recognized firms.

At a time when the appeals and aesthetic qualities of contemporary architecture are being widely argued, and particularly in the Princeton community, Collins early in the competition caught the eye of critics in seeking what he termed a design "open and festive, gay and exciting, inviting to the public, and representative of the spirit and progressive outlook of New Jersey." Assisted by structural engineer Norman J. Sollenberger, of Princeton, and landscape architect Richard J. Cripps, of Lambertville, Collins came up with the first-ballot choice of the experts: a plan consisting of 21 (one for each county) small pavilions arranged about a central theater and four interior gardens.

Briefly associated with the Princeton firm of Kassler & Weisbecker, and this week about to open his own Princeton offices, Collins, while admitting his indebtedness to present-day architectural "greats," feels that he "doesn't belong to any one school of thought and tries to follow my own inclinations." His initial successes are reflected in the anonymous comments of one of the New Jersey Jury members who found that Collins' exhibit-pavilions, using a continuous reflecting pool to mirror the rhythms of the pavilions and the nocturnal brilliance of the Fair itself, suggest a "great exposition character" and a "certain quality of transparency" that accentuate the "necessarily gay atmosphere" of a world-wide jamboree.

Collins, whose name conjures up Civil War heroics and the determination of his forebears to perpetuate the traditions being nurtured by the Civil War Centennial Commission, is a native of Philadelphia where he completed his secondary education at the William Penn Charter School. He moved on to Williams College and, as a member of the Class of 1950, combined Phi Beta Kappa honors in philosophy with proficiency as a long-distance runner, both with the track and cross-country teams. His professional training he received here in Princeton University's School of Architecture, earning the degree of Master of Fine Arts in Architecture in 1954.

Now the father of two children, 8-year old Christopher and Jennifer, age two, Collins nearly a decade ago as a Princeton graduate student provided early evidence of his potential in winning the prize annually conferred by the American Institute of Architects in recognition of "general excellence." Prior to embarking upon two years of service as an architectural draughtsman with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers at Fort Belvoir, Va., Collins caught the approving eye of "higher authority" with an excellent Princeton thesis bearing upon the "expressive use" of two fundamental construction materials, steel and re-enforced concrete.

For creating an "unusual and exciting design" that will be in the heart of an international exhibition; for catching the spirit of a versatile state; for giving full credit to those associated with him, however remotely, in gaining signal success; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

CORPORATION TO MEET

For Hospital Report. In an atmosphere considerably less charged with feeling than last year, the 670 members of the Princeton Hospital Corporation will gather Monday night for their annual meeting.

It will be held in the auditorium of Princeton High School at 8 p.m. The annual report of the Hospital Board of Trustees will be presented by the president, John H. Wallace, Jr. and an uncontested slate of five Trustees will be voted upon. No nominations are permitted from the floor.

The Friends of the Princeton Hospital endorsed two successful candidates for the Board of Trustees last year, but this year, they have voted to support the Trustees' entire slate of five. They are George W. Conover and Laurence C. Ward, Jr., up for reelection, and Dr. Aims C. McGuinness, James S. Hill and John C. Whitwell, who are running for the first time.

The Friends have announced their intention of making a statement at the meeting on the findings of Dr. Anthony J. J. Rourke, the professional consultant who examined the Hospital last year and reported on his findings in mid-July.

Report Withheld. The Rourke report was not made public until this week, although it was distributed to the 865 persons who were members of the Hospital Corporation in July. The Board of Trustees withheld the report so that it could be released simultaneously with the recommendations made on it by the Hospital's Joint Conference Committee.

Those recommendations were released this week to the public in a 13-page document which gives excerpts from the Rourke report and the Joint Committee's actions on them.

The agenda for the annual meeting had not been enmpleted at press time, and it was not known whether the Rourke report and the Committee's reply to it would be brought up by the Trustees at Monday's meeting.

"I Recommend." Judging by the Joint Conference Committee reply to Dr. Rourke's findings, the consultant issued a blanket plague-on-all-your-houses in the intramural struggle among trustees, administrator and medical staff.

Each group was, in the words of the report, "partially responsible for the breakdown in satisfactory relations," and according to report, Dr. Rourke went even farther in his own presentation and included the community in his allocation of responsibility. The Trustees' Joint Conference Committee accepted these reprimands without reservation in each case.

Dr. Rourke's most controversial recommendation was that the Hospital should "realign present hospital charge structure to comply more nearly with general hospital practice in the area."

(Friends of the Princeton Hospital have said that they will ask for a breakdown of administrative costs and rates, with comparable figures for other hospitals.)

To Study Rates. Unable to reach a unanimous decision on this recommendation, even after long discussion, the Joint Committee has decided that the matter needs further study by the Trustees, medical staff and administration.

The Committee pointed out in its comments on Dr. Rourke's recommendation that the hospital should provide the best possible services at the lowest possible rates, and that the charge structure should reflect ths principle, not the charges made by other hospitals in communities quite different from Princeton.

Dr. Rourke also said that the annual membership dues should be increased to $25, and that voting privileges should be granted only after a year of membership.

IN THE NEWS AGAIN: Administrator John W. Kauffman of Princeton Hospital, which this week released the Rourke Report, evaluating its services to the community.

Apparently, his purpose in suggesting this was to make sure that those who voted on hospital problems were those who understood them. The Committee agreed, but also felt that the problems of annual dues was a complex and deserving further study.

Hold Back. The consultant expressed his opinion that no major hospital care programs should be started "until the existing conflict is resolved, except that immediate planning should take place for the replacement of the Maternity and Pediatrics Units."

The Committee agreed that the overcrowded pediatric department required "immediate action," but did not discuss the question of the Maternity section. The group did, however, express its belief that the needs of Maternity might be as critical as those of Pediatrics.

In the delicate area of relations between the medical staff and the administrator, Dr. Rourke suggested, and the Committee agreed, that "the involvement of outside groups will only serve to bring confusion and misunderstanding" to the solution of hospital problems.

Dr. Rourke asked for a concerted medical staff effort "aimed at restoring the faith that the community has lost in the Hospital, its Trustees, its administrator and its medical staff." The Committee, in its report, amended the sentence to read "whatever" faith "may have been" lost.

The Rourke report charged the medical staff with accepting the administrator's responsibility for running the hospital and said, "do not interfere with departmental operation."

Then, pointing the finger at the administrator, the Rourke report suggested "de-emphasizing" his role in maintaining high-quality patient care, and emphasizing the role of the doctor.

Dr. Rourke also suggested that the administration accept the medical staff's integrity in asking for changes in hospital operation or in resisting changes, and delegate to subordinates the routine supervision of the hospital, spending more time in the "areas of conflict" that now exist.

The consultant also suggested that the hospital staff be reduced. This recommendation, according to a hospital spokesman, refers to "housekeeping" staff, technicians and administrative staff, not to nurses, who are still in short supply.

The Committee stated that it did not feel qualified to pass on the technical matters involved in thus recommendation, and therefore did not accept it.

ROUND-UP

At 2.43 Tuesday afternoon, the moment that Col. John Glenn successfully completed this nation's first orbital flight, the Princeton Post Office and some 300 other large offices throughout the country placed on sale "Project Mercury" stamps to commemorate the historic occasion . . . the four-cent stamps had been printed in advance and sent to Postmaster Charles F. Murray carefully sealed, with instructions following on Tuesday to place them on sale when the flight proved successful.

Although Gov. Hughes and his family of ten will not move into "Morven" until some time this spring, the mansion was the scene on Sunday of a five-hour conference among state officials, Public Service bus company executives and labor leaders, meeting in what proved to be a fruitless effort to avert the havoc-creating strike . . . next day, Gov. Hughes' annual budget message brought word that there would be no broad-based tax at present . . . but left the door open for introduction of such legislation before the year ends.

Three teen-agers (Niels Bach, 198 Ewing; Cheryle McFaddon, 157 Mt. Lucas; John Wyckoff, 72 Model Avenue, Hopewell) escaped serious injury Saturday night when the car which Bach was driving went out of control on Washington Road and struck a utility pole . . . a Trenton couple in their 70's were not quite as lucky Sunday afternoon when a small foreign car passing them on the Princeton-Pike crowded them off the road into a telephone pole . . . Mrs. Samuel Rabstein was admitted to Princeton Hospital with multiple contusions of the chest and possible rib fractures.

Mrs. Mildred B. Liptak, 46, 39 Logan Drive, skidded in Friday's snow on State Road 206 near Arreton Road, striking a guard rail . . . Jack Butler, 16-year old Hun School student, was struck Friday morning by a U.S. Mail truck operated by John T. Carthidge, 44, of Trenton, when he ran back across Russell Road for a forgotten book . . . he was treated for lacerations and contusions of the legs.

Beating Col. Glenn by a full three days, Princeton University went into orbit Saturday with the announcement that it had raised $59,202,287 in the campaign that had $53 million as its goal . . . among the candidates for alumni trustees for whom balloting will take place this spring is Walker W. Stevenson, Jr. of 12 Library Place.

February is living up to its reputation as the coldest month of the year with a reading of 4 last week following the others a few days earlier of 3, zero and minus 6 . . . Saturday's high of 43 was the "warmest" for a period of 12 days . . . but the long-range forecast through mid-March predicts temperatures averaging well above normal.

That Bohemian Waxwing spotted in Stanworth is still drawing many visitors, including a number from out of town as word of its presence among Watchers spreads . . . and upwards of 100 went last weekend to the area below the Kingston dam following TOWN TOPICS' picture and story about the rare blue goose wintering here.

Cory S. Kammler

We read an article which says that regardless of the many opinions on the right amount of sleep you or we should get, that you can disregard them all. No one opinion is right for you . . . other than your own, is the gist of the advice. It seems that there are so many variable factors which determine how much sleep one needs that it is impossible to set any one rule for how much is right for any individual. Apparently, if we feel best after ten hours of sleep, we shouldn't let anyone tell us that all we need is eight hours. One person who burns up energy at a different speed may need seven or fewer hours, but you, and only you, can know just how much sleep is best for you. We recall a sign in an office which read, "Work eight hours, and sleep eight hours, but not the same hours." And that reminds us once again to say that we are alert to your every need and devoted to serving your most wide awake desires. We work hard for your appreciation . . . may we demonstrate, please? Quality

A much abused word:

Quality is one of those words that has almost lost its meaning. Everybody claims that his is a "quality" product. What meaning therefore does the word still have as a practical matter? What help is it to the consumer seeking the superior article? The answer is that it is usually of no help whatsoever. Perhaps in the last analysis, the average buyer must simply put his faith in the good name and reputation of the maker.

In the old days there were some earmarks of quality furniture that people recognized. Smooth-running drawers and dovetail construction, for example, were once marks of quality. Today, dovetailed drawers are often found in ordinary mass-produced furniture. To be sure, the dovetails are an improvement, but they are far from being all that makes quality furniture. Much more important considerations are choice woods, seasoned lumber, high test glues, durable finishing materials, and refinements of design that can be interpreted and executed only by highly skilled craftsmen. These are the things that seldom meet the eye. But these are what really count, if the user is to have the joys that come from living with fine furniture. Only the maker with a reputation to maintain, can afford to build these things into his furniture.

It has always been the policy at VIKING to supply our customers with furniture of lasting strength and beauty. All items at VIKING are executed in DENMARK by the foremost Danish craftsmen.

However, wood is a live material and it must be taken good care of if you want its imaginative structure and fine hand-rubbed oil finish to last. Furniture shown at VIKING has a hand-rubbed oil finish which gives the wood this sensational dull and durable surface, reducing maintenance and cleaning to a minimum.

THREADING THE NEEDLE: Delicate balancing and a bullseye aim were required to install this two-ton steel girder in the building at the rear of 30 Nassau Street. Picture at left shows the tiny target; at right, the job is on the way to successful completion. The structure, formerly used as a furniture storehouse, is being remodelled to house the Plumbing and Heating Division of the American Standard Co. By mid-March, the building will become a training school for the firm's sales personnel, with the structural steel installed by Palmer Square, Inc., owner of the building, as a safety measure in view of its increased use.

DOGS ARE NEXT

Their Day: March 19. Copies of the new Township dog-control ordinance are now available in the administrator's office, Township Hall.

The public hearing on the new ordinance will be held Monday, March 19, at 8 p.m. in Township Hall and after the hearing, Committee will take final action on the measure. It was passed on first reading Monday night.

The new ordinance raises the license fee from $2 to $3 a year; establishes the post of "dog-control officer" (dog catcher); banishes dogs from all public or private school property and from other Township-owned property except streets unless the dogs are under the control of a responsible person.

It also empowers the catcher to pick up any unlicensed dog, and any dog who is on school property or is molesting children, chasing cars, and so on. The catcher can also serve notice on any dog owner that his dog must be restrained if, according to the "information and belief" of the catcher, the dog is a nuisance.

Anyone who ignores the catcher's warning will be brought before the Township magistrate to face the possibility of a fine up to $25.

Committee said that the Borough, once thought to be a partner of the Township's in the matter of dog control, had decided that there was no Borough dog problem, and hence, no need for a revised Borough ordinance.

"If a Borough dog crosses the street into the Township and commits a nuisance, he will be picked up," commented Committeeman John S. Mount.

Committee also passed an ordinance allocating $16,500 for two heavy-duty trucks, one 7-ton and one 10-ton. James Breth, Township engineer, said the present 2-ton trucks are inadequate for hauling stones or sand for road work, or for snow-removal. He cited the broken axels of last year's snowstorms.

An ordinance providing $3,000 to survey and design the first leg of the Great Road realignment was also passed.

NEW TEACHING CONCEPT

Approved for Township Schools. Approval of the basic concept of plans for the school child of tomorrow has been voted unanimously by the Princeton Township School Board. Superintendent of Schools John J. McKenna told the Board that under the plan, "the whole present concept of the teacher and pupil relationship would have no meaning."

"The only thing we are really after is a highly individualized instruction plan," he said. "Our goal is self-direction in children, and we would like to experiment towards this goal."

Discussion disclosed the administrative staff's premise that school children are being unnecessarily restrained in various aspects of their intellectual development by the present system of grade levels. The proposed plan would place heavy emphasis on developing self-direction to a very high degree.

To achieve this, Dr McKenna told the Board, a child would move across grade lines, his work aided and abetted by teachers operating in a team system and by the maximum use of programmed instruction, film strips and similar techniques. A child would move forward restricted only by his own inherent ability to learn.

"The more we develop the self-direction, the less the staff will be," Dr. McKenna said in an informal discussion after the meeting. He added, "In Detroit, they design the 1992 automobile and work from there. I think we have to do the same thing."

To Start at Riverside. The pilot program towards self-direction will begin at the Riverside School under the direction of Mrs. Alice Packard, principal. A finalized program, to operate experimentally for about five years, is scheduled for September 1963, initially involving children of kindergarten and first grade levels. The second and third levels are to be added in 1964 and 1965 respectively.

When the new Community Park School opens in September of this year, an experimental pattern of "teacher teams" will go into effect. The team system is a great blending of all resources. To sustain this pattern effectively, the Board approved Dr. McKenna's recommendation that Mrs. Mary V. Saurman, the new librarian, begin organizing the library for the School immediately.

"From our experiment at Community Park, we should learn whether the self-contained classroom or the team system is the best," Mr. McKenna said.

On the Way

I went in orbit,
And as I spun,
I saw the earth
Go around the sun.
I pulled it in by
A magic string
To swing it around
So we'd have spring.
— J. GLENN

Astronaut Glenn found time Tuesday to pen this jingle while circling the earth, and welcome news it is that spring is on the way.

It will be a while, however, before that delightful season arrives. Meanwhile, the birthday of our nation's father is scheduled to be marked by none-too-pleasant weather: sleet and snow, although not unusually cold. Thereafter, clearing and mild for the weekend.

"MACBETH" TO OPEN

In Preview. A special preview matinee of "Macbeth" will open the McCarter Theatre spring season of Elizabethan dramas when the curtain goes up this Saturday at 2:30.

The Spring Drama Season will open formally with a gala public performance of "The Duchess of Malfi" on Friday evening, March 2.

The "Macbeth" in this production will be Jon Cypher, whose "Dunois" in "Saint Joan" and George in "Our Town" will be recalled by theare-goers from the season last fall.

Other returning members of the company will be Ramon Bieri, as Macduff, Arthur Lithgow as Duncan and Al Corbin, Charles Herick and Haig Chubanian as the three witches.

Dorothy Whitney will play Lady Macbeth, moving into the part from her recent screen performance as Mag Wildwood of Wildwood, Ark., in "Breakfast At Tiffany's."

CHOIR WILL SING

In Gospel Program. Commended by many critics for their "joyful noise unto the Lord," the Greater Abyssinian Baptist Choir under Prof. Alex Bradford, will come to McCarter Saturday at 8:30 for a program of Gospel songs. Joining them will be the Imperial Gospel Singers of Trenton.

The Bradford singers first achieved national recognition when they appeared in the summer of 1959 at the Newport Jazz Festival. The following year, they sang at both the Jazz and Folk Festivals in Newport and they have also appeared frequently in concert halls and theatres.

The group is best known for its appearance in the Broadway production, "Black Nativity" which was the occasion for critic Walter Kerr's remark that they made a "joyful noise."

DOLLS ARE COMING

In Dance Fantasy. "Doll Fantasy" is the title of the 14th annual recital to be presented by the Peggy Longstreth Bayer School of Dance on Saturday, March 10, in the Princeton High School auditorium. As in past years, the recital will be given for the benefit of the Heart Fund.

The 75 children who will appear in the recital range from 4½ to 15 years of age. Anne and Ted Hinsdale, Charlotte Yoder and Tim Baroon will perform an exhibition tango. Viennese waltz and samba and Tom Teng and his Princeton Judo Group will give an exhibition of their particular techniques. Mary Bayer will do a Bride Doll solo.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Babes in Toyland February 21-27). Any relation between Walt Disney's live-action fairy tale and Victor Herbert's operetta can only be found in the title. The only improvements on the Herbert original are to be found in the cinematic trick photography, while George Burns has re-written and "modernized" the musical score.

Ray Bolger is excellent as a villain who is pursuing Annette

Want To Try Out?

"All the King's Men," the Community Players' production to be given late in March, will be open for try-outs next week to all interested residents of Princeton and neighboring communities.

Those who wish to try out are invited to an introductory meeting in Murray Theatre on campus at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 4. Actual try-outs will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 3 and 4, at 2 and Monday and Tuesday, March 5 and 6, at 8 in the theatre.

Edward Earle will direct the Robert Penn Warren play, according to Garrison Ellis, newly-elected Players' president. Mr. Earle, director of the Trenton Studio of the Performing Arts, was seen in Princeton as the conjur man in "Dark of the Moon."

(after hearing her sing, one wonders why, however) who is in love with Tommy Sands. Ed Wynn offers a wonderful characterization of the befuddled toymaker. The best musical number is Herbert's "March of the Toys" and the accompanying musical effects.

The worst musical number (for obvious reasons) is when Annette sings along with several shadows of herself. But the colorful arrangement and dances involving all sorts of toys are bound to appeal greatly to children, for whom it seems solely designed. Comment: kid stuff.

A Majority of One (February 26-March 6) is the film adaptation of the stage hit starring Gertrude Berg and Sir Cedric Hardwicke. While the stage limitations were perfect for a domestic comedy of this type, the big screen merely magnifies the relative triteness of the situation.

The story concerns a Jewish widow from Brooklyn and her romance with a Japanese businessman. The resulting screenplay is a mish-mash of sentimentality, comedy, surface moralizing on bigotry and lengthy speeches and situations.

Rosalind Russell ("Auntie Mame") is improbably cast as the Jewish widow, while Sir Alec Guinness is just as improbably cast as the industrialist. Neither can master the accents, and the result is unnerving. The picture is in color. It ranges from Brooklyn to an ocean voyage to Japan and back. It is too long. Comment: Molly Goldberg—all at sea.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

We are deeply disturbed by current developments in the field of civil defense. It appears to us that the prodigious energy of our people is being channeled into wrong directions for wrong reasons; and that continuation of this trend may be extremely dangerous to the nation and to civilization itself.

The Effect Of Large Nuclear Weapons

We are now in the era of 50 to 100 megaton bombs. According to the AEC estimate of October 1, a 100 megaton bomb, exploded in the air, would have an 18-mile radius of total destruction of ordinary structures, and would ignite most wooden buildings in a radius of 60 miles. Within that area, a large proportion of the population would be suffocated by lack of oxygen or poisoned by carbon monoxide. Basement shelters under buring buildings would be useless, as would blast shelters without a reserve air supply.

Admittedly, it may be possible to design and construct a civil defense capability to permit national survival after a massive attack with such weapons. It would entail, at the very least, permanent, deep underground placement of enough of our economy and communication and a sufficient decentralization of public activities, to enable operation of vital services immediately after attack. It also would require enough public blast shelters to permit ready access by almost everyone on a few minutes notice, even in the cities. The cost of such a program would be comparable to the entire capital investment of the country — several thousand dollars per person — and would consume a substantial fraction of our gross national product for numbers of years. There is a serious question as to whether the Soviet Union would stand idly by while we tried to make ourselves really bombproof. In addition, we believe that the prospect of living indefinitely in an underground fortress would not appeal to the nation

The nation has not yet faced up to the real dangers of thermonuclear war. We believe that most of our people do not understand what the world would look like the day after an attack or what problems would be involved in recovering from a war which killed, injured, poisoned, and destroyed on such a large scale. Many of those who do understand have found the prospect too awful and have, therefore, put the idea from their minds.

The Results Of An Inadequate Program

We are aware that our government is trying to deal realistically with the problem of war or peace. Unfortunately, however, government encouragement of shelter construction, as interpreted by the popular press, some local CD officials, and would-be shelter manufacturers, has led to a cruel deception of the people with respect to the protection which would be afforded, especially by individual fallout shelters. These shelters might be adequate in a "minor" atomic war, as could have started in 1950. Such a conservative program has little relevance to the type of large scale attack which might be anticipated in 1962.

It is undoubtedly true that such shelters in areas remote from blast centers might temporarily keep alive a certain number of people. However, the continued survival of those, and of civilization as we know it, also requires the protection of the physical basis of society — the means of production and of distribution, government and communication, etc. A program for doing that is very different from anything now being considered.

The principal danger of the present program is the false sense of security engendered. It is much like a quack cure, for cancer. If we are lucky, the "treatment" may not kill us, but in the meantime while the cancer is growing and becoming incurable, we fail to go to a reputable physician for sensible treatment. By buying a shelter program which does not shelter, and thereby believing that we can survive a thermonuclear war, we are increasing the probability of war. This probability increases both because we may be more willing to "go to the brink" if we think survival is possible and because we are less likely to devise and take any of the constructive steps which may ease tension and secure the peace.

Arguments In Favor Of Civil Defense

We recognize that many sincere people support the present civil defense program for what they believe are good reasons. Space is too short to discuss these at length, but we have examined them at length and believe they are wrong.

For example, it is said that civil defense is a deterrent. If it really protected us to the extent necessary for survival if might be; but at present its only deterrent value lies in the demonstration to the Soviet Union that we expect to have a war. Even on this point it might be argued that this is more likely to precipitate a preemptive attack than to deter one.

It is sometimes said that we should protect ourselves against a limited nuclear war, in which, perhaps, only a few cities on each side would be destroyed. Such a war is highly unlikely. Regardless of the cause of the war, limitation would call for a degree of restraint and mutual agreement between the parties which, if obtainable in peacetime, could prevent war altogether.

There is also the "anything is better than nothing" argument. Of course, every government has the responsibility of trying to protect its citizens, even if only a relatively few of them are likely to survive a disaster. The danger is that the individual man for whom a shelter is made at his home or place of work is being made to feel significantly safer. For any given person this is almost certain to prove false.

The Moral Issues

We have not touched on the moral issues of the shelter program—the question of whether it is right to plan on "losing" our cities and the people in them when decisions of war and peace are made, the question of defending private shelters against intruders, the question of abandoning millions of injured outside while the rest of us hide underground, the question of shelters for the rich vs. shelters for the poor or the apartment dweller, the question of the long term effect of a shelter psychology on the values of a democratic society — these are important issues as well. We have dealt here primarily with the more pressing questions of the adequacy of civil defense and its effect on war and peace. A moral code does not exist in a vacuum If we lose the structure of society we cannot hope to keep our moral values.

SUMMARY: We believe that although the present civil defense program, and in particular the construction of fallout shelters, might save a small fraction of the population in a nuclear war, this potential gain is more than offset by the fact that such activity prepares the people for the acceptance of thermonuclear war as an instrument of national policy. We believe that this acceptance would substantially increase the likelihood of war — a war which would be permanently fatal to our democratic society, even if not to all of us. The American people are capable of great effort and sacrifice. We believe this effort should be directed toward a positive program for peace with freedom. This is bound to be at least as difficult and time-consuming as any preparation for war, and will require the highest type of leadership for success. At the present time the nation is not ready to consider such a program, largely because of widespread lack of understanding of just how catastrophic war today would be. We call upon you, Mr. President, to make this plain and then to lead the nation forward on a race towards peace.

(A letter substantially the same as this one appeared in the New York Times on November 10, 1961 signed by 181 faculty members of Boston, Brandies, Harvard and Tufts Universities and Massachusetts Institute of Technology in The Washington Post on December 26, 1961 signed by 100 members of Princeton University and the Institute for Advanced Study; and was reprinted in the Newark Evening News on January 15, 1962 with over 600 signatures.)

CUT RATE TO LONDON

For All 25 of You. If you have 24 friends, or if you belong to a club, office or bridge class that has 25 people in it, you can now go to London or Paris much more cheaply than if you had no friends at all.

The international carriers have decided among themselves to set a group price of $300 round-trip between New York and London for any group of 25 people crossing together on the same plane and returning together on the same plane.

In between, you're on your own.

The Kuller Travel Agency at 108 Nassau would be happy to take care of accommodations, but you've got to get your own group together. There is no time limit on this trip—except that the reduced rate offer does not go into effect until March 1. The 25 of you can leave this country on March 1 and not come back until February 28, 1963, if that is your pleasure. The only stipulation is that you embark and return as a group.

If you would rather go to Paris than to London, you may do so for $325 round-trip. These are economy class rates, by the way, and they mean a considerable saving for you. The regular economy round-trip fare to London, for example, is $486—which works out to $186 saved, if our arithmetic hasn't failed us.

Flights are all by jet. Propellor driven planes will take you there even less expensively—$278—but there are so few props going across the Atlantic that we only mention the figure over our shoulder in passing.

Kuller suggests that some one person act as a group captain, so to speak, signing up the 25 required passengers. (probably smart to get more than 25 in case a few have to resign at the last minute) handling the reservations and the like. Reservations must be made 30 days before the flight leaves, and the full flight prices paid at that time.

PRETTY FAKE

At Flower Coop. A rose by any name is supposed to smell as sweet, but what about a plastic rose that doesn't smell at all, not even of plastic, and manages to look more like a real rose than some specimens that have turned up in our garden?

The roses we found at The Flower Coop, 38 Witherspoon, are as fake and as lovely as they come, even made with little blunt thorns for verisimilitude. There are full-blown beauties, shy buds and gamut in between.

All the flowers at the Flower Coop are designed with eternity in mind. You may buy them loose and arrange them in your home, or choose them in the shop and ask the flower ladies to arrange them in your own container or one of the containers conveniently for sale at The Coop.

We like an 18-inch carnation tree with such-red flowers! It emerges from a red pole stuck into a round red standard, and it comes from the same family as the pyramidal lemon tree, except that this tree has bright lemon yellow—well, lemons, and shiny green leaves instead of carnations.

You've seen plastic flowers often enough to know about, or at least to imagine, the cornflowers, zinnias, yellow and white daffodils, sweet peas, dahlias and violets that fill every bin in The Flower Coop, but you may not be so familiar with other plants—imported at great expense from the gardens of the world—now on view and for sale at the shop

The eucalyptus tree, for example, is an unusual bit of fakery. It stands about four feet high in a pot, arranging its grey-green coin leaves as if it knew how graceful its curving branches were.

There is also an unusually large collection of greens at The Flower Coop, including philodendron, grape ivy and some other kind of ivy that

Spring Is Here

By "here," we mean the new Flower Coop at 38 Witherspoon where you can step into spring from Witherspoon — if you'll pardon the reference to Princeton geography — and forget about the slush outside.

The little shop has white walls reflecting whatever sunshine there may be, shining brass-trimmed doors, the white wrought-iron furniture you'd find on a terrace and, of course, flowers everywhere, poking their bright heads out of the white-painted chicken feeder, swinging in graceful festoons from pendant baskets and bringing the cheer of spring and sun to the wintry shopper.

Neapolitan Carousel (February 22-27) is an ambitious project of Ettore Giannini, who conceived, wrote and directed the film. During the course of two hours, the story of the city of Naples for the last three centures is told in ballet, drama and music.

Originally produced in 1953, when it won the first international prize award at the Cannes Film Festival, "Carousel" features five complete ballet segments and over 40 Neopolitan songs. Some of the performers include the African Ballet, the Rome Opera Corps de Ballet, Beniamino Gigli, Carlo Tagliabue and Giacomo Rondinella.

A thin story line concerning a poor family of street musicians which comes to symbolize the spirit of Naples connects and introduces the various musical segments. Familiar faces include Sophia Loren and Nadia Gray. In color, with English subtitles. Comment: a fascinating city, brought alive in music.

L'Elisir d'Amour (February 28) is the last in the Grand Opera Film Festival series at the Garden. Gaetano Donizetti's great example of opera buffa, or Italian comic opera, stars Titto Gobbi and Nelly Corradi. It was first performed in 1832.

The Five-Day Lover (March 1-6) is the third of director Philippe De Broca's sophisticated French comedies, the others being "The Love Game" and "The Joker." Using the same techniques of a slight framework of plot and Jean-Pierre Cassel as the gigolo, De Broca has again whipped up a frothy, bedroom farce, at least on the surface.

Jean Seberg (who flopped on the American screen, then went to Europe and is one of France's top actresses) plays a young Englishwoman living in Paris. Her affair with Cassel, who is being kept by another woman (Micheline Presle), is the focus of the plot. The comic climax occurs when Miss Seberg, her husband and Cassel attend a party given by Miss Presle.

As the picture ends, however De Broca comments that nothing has really changed. The heroine has given up her current affair, but there will be others. And the 90 minutes of humor, farce and hilarity turn into a comment on a society with no meaning in its life. Comment: a fresh, frothy brew — with a bite.

Another angle, the "core" system, will be explored at the Littlebrook School. A "core" is an inter-related study unit involving, for example, spelling, reading, writing, literature and social studies—all a part of communications.

The plan calls for four core teachers and three teachers assigned to either arithmetic or science. A student will spend all morning with a core teacher and in the afternoon study with a teacher who concentrates on one field, such as mathematics or sciences.

"Concentration of Study." It is this concentration of study which was among the prime movers of the Township's reorganization of its study system. "The demands of our modern curricula are such that it is extremely difficult for a single person to be adequate as an expert in all branches," Dr. McKenna stated in his report to the board.

"The major staff weaknesses appears to be a lack of major concentration in mathematics and science which adversely affects teaching confidence in these areas." The report also brought out the belief that teachers who are able to concentrate on a more restricted range of subjects will be able to maintain interest to a higher degree and to give greater attention to the child's development.

Hand-in-glove with the Township's experiments at Littlebrook and possibly at Community Park will be New York University's Experimental Teaching Center, the School Board having authorized Dr. McKenna and his staff to negotiate with the University for assistance in developing the proposed plans. The association would draw upon NYU for consultants, facilities and evaluations. The hope was expressed that through NYU a Ford Foundation grant would be forthcoming to support the added costs of this venture.

Other liaisons are planned wth the Hicksville School, Long Island, and with a Pennsylvania school, such as the Pennsbury schools in lower Bucks County, for the exchange of information.

The School Board stated its complete agreement with the views on consolidation of Borough and Township schools expressed by residents of the Riverside School area and approved the reply drafted by Mrs. Jess Epstein, board president.

Mrs. Epstein read a request for support of the dog ordinance pending before the Township Committee from Mrs. John P. Cleaver, of 308 Western Way, representing four Township PTA associations. The Board appointed Lawrance Thompson to submit in writing its endorsement of the ordinance and to attend the Committee hearing.

DOW JONES TO BUILD In South Brunswick Township. Dow Jones & Company, Inc., publishers of The Wall Street Journal and the new Sunday newspaper, The National Observer, have announced plans for an expanded program of research and development in the graphic arts and communication fields and the centralization of the company's experimental activities in a new facility to be built in South Brunswick Township.

The company has taken options on approximately 100 acres on Route 1. The site was chosen after a wide survey of possible locations and is situated in an area which is becoming a leading research center in the country. Nearby neighbors will include Food Machinery and Chemical, RCA Research Center, American Cyanamid and the Forrestal Laboratories.

The laboratory-plant will house the company's engineering department, its research and planning division, experimental facilities and equipment manufacturing operations. Some business office activities will also be conducted there.

Dow Jones built and developed the electro-typesetter system which makes it possible for the company to produce six editions of the Wall Street Journal, identical in news content, in widely-separated plants. The New York firm also manufactures the telegraph printer used by its news service, automatic mailing machines, high-speed circulation servicing equipment and other specialized machinery.

Apartments, a multiple housing unit whose backers hope to build on 27 acres of land on Ewing Street.

Appearing at the counsel table with Ernest S. Glickman, spokesman for the apartment corporation, was William C. Baggitt, who told the Zoning Board that he represented a group of Princeton residents.

He named Alexander Ettl, Rosedale Road; Raymond A. Bowers, 88 Russell Road; Harry Volweider, 28 Woodland Drive and John D. Wallace, 100 Braeburn, as four of his clients. None of the four is an immediate neighbor of the proposed project, with the possible exception of Mr. Volweider.

"We are not opposing this project as such," Mr. Bowers told TOWN TOPICS. "We believe that the Township should either amend the zoning ordinance or keep it, not allow individual variances each time one is asked. Our role is to support the public, the Township Committee and the Zoning Board in upholding the spirit of the zoning ordinance."

Frank Goldstein, Philadelphia builder who would construct the new units, told the Zoning Board that the corporation planned to build 100 apartments at a time, depending on demand, until 432 were built, possibly over a six-year period.

There would be 18 units altogether, each one and one half stories high, designed in "contemporary" style.

He said the $4-5 million project would have $90 efficiency apartments, $125 one-bedroom apartments and $150 two-bedroom units, each air-conditioned, each with balcony or patio, depending on level. He estimated a $10,000 per unit cost.

With the dwelling units, there would be a community building, tennis courts, swimming pool, playgrounds, and parking for more than 500 cars. Each building would have four main entrances and a central stairwell.

In response to a question by Mr Baggitt, Mark Karlen of Philadelphia, the architect, said that he had used his personal judgment in determining the land-building ratio since there was no ordinance in the Township to regulate this.

The hearing will be continued at the next regular meeting of the Board on March 15 at 8:30 p.m.

TRAINING NIGHT SET For Red Cross Canvassers. A training program for the volunteers who will make a door-to-door solicitation for the American Red Cross Drive will be held Monday evening at 8 at the Princeton High School auditorium. The fund raising will begin March 1 to James E. Andrews of 36 Hibben Road is general campaign chairman. He will introduce Jerald S. Hanks of Pennington, chairman of the Princeton Board of Directors, who will explain the relationship of the programs of local chapters to those of the national and international Red Cross.

The training session of the house-to-house canvassers will be headed by Mrs. William Allen of 68 Magnolia Lane. The volunteers will be organized into operating units headed by captains.

Two other divisions of the fund drive are the Special Gifts Division and the Business Division. They are headed by John F. Poe and Ridgley W. Cook, respectively.

EMERGENCY PLAN SET

For Borough Schools. Princeton Borough Board of Education at its Monday nigh meeting authorized Schools Superintendent Dr. Chester R. Stroup to set up a basic plan of action for protection of school children in case of emergencies.

The plan is designed to serve in any kind of emergency, from a natural disaster such as a hurricane to a man-made one such as an enemy attack. Under the plan, school personnel will be assigned specific duties to perform at a time of emergency. In addition, a supply of extra canned goods will be purchased.

Decision to authorize establishment of this basic plan was made following a spirited, hour-long discussion of a preliminary report submitted by the Disaster Committee for Princeton Schools.

The committee, which is headed by Dr. Stroup, includes representatives of the boards of education, administration, school nurses and cafeteria directors of Borough and Township schools; Capt. Geoffrey Sage, Civil Defense director, and representatives of the State Police and the Borough and Township police and fire departments.

Evacuation or Not? The committee's report, which dealt with recommended action in case of nuclear attack, was in two sections: plans for evacuation of children from schools if time allowed, and plans for taking care of children in the schools if evacuation should not be possible.

Graham Rohrer, school board president, spoke out vehemently against the principle of evacuation.

"Our aim is to protect the children," Mr. Rohrer said. "Why send them to unprotected homes? Why not keep them in school?"

Mr. Rohrer also said that he felt a detailed plan for action by the schools in case of nuclear attack could not be made until a plan was established for the whole Princeton community.

"This is not a school problem," he said, "it's a total community problem. We can't decide about the schools until there is a plan on the local and national level. Then we can fit the schools into that plan."

Mrs. Strayer Welcomed. The discussion of emergency plans followed the board's official reorganization meeting, during which the board's new member, Mrs. Paul J. Strayer, was officially welcomed. The board also issued a vote of appreciation to Mrs. Lefferts A. Loetscher, whom Mrs. Strayer replaced.

Mr. Rohrer was re-elected board president and Dr. Jeremiah Finch was re-elected vice president. Mrs. Strayer was named the board's representative on the Disaster Committee succeeding Mrs. Loetscher, and was also appointed to the Instruction and Professional Development committees.

The appointment of Richard Wood as head football coach was approved by the board. He succeeds Joseph Jinguli, who resigned the coaching position because of his added responsibilities as head of the physical education department.

Also approved were the appointments of Thomas Murray as assistant track coach and Mrs. Frieda K. Dueben as English teacher in the high school. Mrs. Dueben succeeds Mrs. Jane Garrett who resigned because of illness.

AUTHOR MOVES HERE

To Complete Book. Claiming that "New York is an impossible place in which to try to lecture," has moved to 142 Nassau St. "to write a book." Alfred M. Lilienthal, author, historian and sau Street. He will be here until June to complete his new book on the Middle East.

Mr. Lilienthal is the author of "What Price Israel" and "There Goes the Middle East." He is a graduate of Cornell University and Columbia Law School and served as a member of the U. S. State Department. Beginning 14 years ago, when both were in Washington, D. C., Mr. Lilienthal notes that he has often been confused with David Lilienthal, former head of the Atomic Energy Commission, who maintains a Princeton home at 88 Battle Road.

NEW MEMBER: Mrs. Sarah K. Strayer took office Monday as a new three-year member of the Borough Board of Education.

PEARSON TO SERVE

As Board President. Members of the Township Board of Education chose Richard Pearson to serveas president of the group at the re-organization meeting held Monday night. He succeeds Mrs. Jess Epstein. A. Robert Trudel will be the new vice-president.

At the re-organization meeting, the Board welcomed its new member, Willis Bussard, who was elected last week. Mr. Pearson and Leonard Hymerling were returned to their positions in the uncontested election.

MRS. PETITO WINS

Lawrence School Board Seat. In a write-in contest which saw 39 different persons received votes for a one-year unexpired term on the Lawrence Township School Board, Mrs. Bebe C. Petito, 557 Drexel Avenue, was the winner.

She received 59 votes, four more than L. Bruce Cranstoun, 32 Devon Avenue. The outcome remained in doubt last week until the complicated results were referred to county elections officials. Several versions of Mrs. Petito's name were used by her backers, including her own name and her married name, Mrs. Robert A. Petito.

SATURDAY IS DEADLINE

For Coast Guard Class. Registrations for the course in Basic Seamanship and Safe Boat handling, sponsored jointly by the YMCA and the Coast Guard Auxiliary, will be received through Saturday. The ten-week course is scheduled to begin Tuesday at the Y Building on Avalon Place.

Those who have been instrumental in the planning of the course include Charles Tessein, training officer; Commodore Joseph McAndrew, Mrs. Betty Dukro and Mrs. Molley Airey, Flotilla Commander. Registrations are being accepted by the Y office or by Mr. Tessein at WA 1-9900.

SKATING PARTY PLANNED

At Lawrenceville. The Trenton Dolphins Diving Club will sponsor a skating party at Lavino Rink, Lawrenceville, Monday night at 8.

Proceeds will benefit the Mercer County Unit for Retarded Children. Admission, including refreshments, is $1 and the event is open to the public.

CORRECTION

In Accident Report. It was erroneously stated in last week's issue that Duane Lockard, 54-A College Road, received a summons from Township Police following an accident.

Mr. Lockard did not receive a summons, but Hector L. Berrios, 115 Alexander Street, who crashed into Mr. Lockard's car received two: one for driving an unregistered vehicle and one for having no driver's license.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think this country has gained or lost in the exchange of Powers for Colonel Abel?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Ernie Procaccino, 283 Ewing Street, manager of Wright's Hardware: We lost. Abel was a master spy; Powers was only a pilot. But I don't blame Powers for what he did. If I were his family, I'd want him back, too.

Henry Pannel, 27 Clay Street, assistant manager of Wrights: I think we lost because Abel was supposed to be a real smart spy. Any vital information he gained he could keep in his head. Now he can tell it all to Russia. I feel anything that Powers may have found out isn't of much value to this country because if it was, Russia would have never let him come back. In short, Abel knew a lot more than Powers did and Russia must have wanted pretty badly to find out what it was.

Joseph W. Morrone, Lincoln Highway, mailman: With the possibility of a third American being released in exchange for Colonel Abel, the point is: will the intelligence or the value of these three outweigh that of Abel's? Speaking as a layman, I don't think they possess the intelligence that Colonel Abel will be able to turn over to the Russians From the humanistic point, however, we have gained, three to their one.

Miss Louise Maas, 52 Nassau Street, owner of candy store: I think we've lost because I feel, basically, we're too generous and gullible. Colonel Abel was one of Russia's top men; Powers was just "a" man.

James Murphy, Edgewood Avenue, Trenton, carpenter: I don't think we've gained or lost. It was a mutual agreement. I think the information that Abel will be able to turn over to the Russians will be out of date and of little value, while the information that Powers has may be more useful because it happened more recently. I think it was an advantage to get Powers back because it proves how this country will do everything it can to get its men back. It will encourage future men like Powers.

James Renner, Clearfield, Pa., plumber: I don't think we can say who gained until we find out just what Powers told the Russians. According to the papers, Powers was told to confess by our government if he was caught. He might have been told to say things that would only serve to mislead Russia.

Mrs. George Barrie, 280 Nassau Street, housewife: I'm glad the exchange was made for Powers sake but I question the value of the penalty in the first place. Of what value were the penalties incurred for international spying if both were traded or paroled? What was the point? As soon as we catch a spy and they one of ours, we might as well shoot them back and forth right away rather than go through the long process of trial.

Nathan G. Parke, 1901 Hall, Princeton University junior: We lost on two counts. From my understanding, Abel was a more competent spy. He was one of Russia's top men; smart, clever, resourceful, well-trained. He can now be sent on another mission and still be of great value. Powers was just a hillbilly who learned how to fly. He won't be useful to us anymore. All he can do is fly a reconnaissance mission. Certainly Powers is no hero. In fact, there is a feeling here among some of the students at Prineeton that he should be hanged. Secondly, in terms of immediate propaganda, the prospect of having the Powers incident aired again is not in our favor.

Mrs. William Black, 16 Alexander Street, housewife: It seems to me that Powers is a much less high-ranking spy than Colonel Abel and perhaps the Russians have gained as usual because they are less sentimental than we are. It's like exchanging a general for a private. In a lot of ways, I still don't think it made a lot of difference one way or the other. I don't think the Russians will be able to use Abel here again unless they use plastic surgery or some other disguise. If they can, they certainly have made a big gain. To us, life is more important than anything and I approve of what we did but Russia made the better hargain, nonetheless.

Tignell Morton, 3 Shirley Court, retired utility man: We lost. I believe that in Abel we had captured a professional Russian spy, one who had been employed by Russia for years and years. Whatever Powers was, if he was spying, he was a novice. Russia can gain more from the exchange of information Abel can give them than we will from what Powers will be able to tell us.

Stephen Chase, Lakeside Apartments, University instructor: I'm glad the exchange was made. Certainly Abel was a more effective spy for Russia than Powers was for us, but that should not in any way diminish the joy that the exchange was made.

Mrs. Robert Ferguson, 79 Robert Road, housewife: Oh, I feel we lost because Colonel Abel was one of their top spies and I don't think the exchange of information will be as valuable to this country as it will to Russia.

Walter M. Cramp, 10 Westcott Road, Director of Information, Bureau for Advanced Housing: I think we've gained. I feel (1) the Russian spy wasn't doing us any good here in prison, he never would have been of any use to us; and (2) we'll probably find out a lot of things from Powers that we wouldn't have been able to because of the secrecy behind the whole thing.

"Murderers by Default."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Emotions are running high in the discussion of the question, whether the United States should engage in a program for fallout shelters. This is understandable. The question is ugly and painful; the answers are disagreeable and uncertain, though they point toward the affirmative.

This country is at present suffering from a trauma such as it never had before. It can be attacked massively any time—its insular isolation is gone forever. We live now as the rest of humanity has lived since time immemorial: in the face of a possible imminent disaster. It is not easy to adjust, to see coldly what actions are technically possible, what their consequences would be and whether we would accept or reject them on moral grounds.

No one can deny that large scale destruction is technically possible; but no one knows whether it will come. Clearly, the first effort is to prevent a catastrophe. Merely to demand peace is not enough. A pragmatic attitude is required: what are the specific steps to secure it before a disaster occurs? No speedy progress towards a safe, lasting and honorable peace is in sight.

So we try to ward off the potential attack by counter measures which are also uncertain, precarious, and if ever carried out as awful and as murderous as is the threat to us. In this situation merely to rely on our counter-threat and on the slow, weak movements toward world peace and government is inadequate and incomplete.

If shelters can save some part of the people when our other efforts fail, are they then not part of a protective program? What is gained by exposing millions to unnecessary death and disease?

To do so is defeatist toward life itself. And it is arrogant to insist that nothing should be done, because the measures are unpleasant, their consequences dark and because they do not resolve our moral dilemma, which is our inability to protect everyone. It is the same dilemma regarding poverty and disease, but there we seem to have made the adjustment.

So the first question is: are fallout shelters effective? That depends on the attack.

No one can say what it would be like, but all reasonable estimates are that even an exceedingly heavy attack will not destroy everything. And suppose it is smaller, then the difference of having shelters or not is enormous.

If we do not provide shelters when there is a good chance that we can save lives, we become potential murderer by default. It goes against all reason not to try to protect where protection is feasible. It will be far from perfect, far from equal for all, far from being pleasant, but neither will it be hopeless.

The magnitude of the effort is hardly worth writing about. Any western country can afford a great measure of protection the United States more than any other, and the possible sacrifice of some luxuries is nothing compared with the purpose.

The second question is whether shelters make war more likely. Again there is no sure answer. Shelters are only one small item in the whole picture.

It is difficult to see, however, why a defensive American shelter effort is as much a provocation as is the Russian test series of more than 50 shots, culminating in a super bomb of more than 50 megatons. This is a sharp divergence to our disfavor in the precarious deterrence balance which so far has saved the world from war.

Wishing to preserve peace, we must rely on a mutually secure, effective deterrence until some other better development occurs. There is now no sign of anything new.

The only hope we have is that the deterrence will continue to work and that during this time some peaceful settlements can be made in which mutual guarantees and controls give us the safety which the world needs. Let us face the fact that the course of history is not predictable and that the decision to build or not to build is made under conditions of extreme uncertainty.

Sampling Process Defined.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a member of the consultative committee that approved Herman Ward's suggestion of a one-year trial of the efficiacy of doubling the amount of writing in Princeton High School but making it possible by requiring teachers to correct only a sample of each student's papers, I should like to chide Professor Howell gently for careless reading. He stumbles on the word "sampling" and blasts the assumption "that the quality of all writing will magically improve when a few students are benefitted by having their themes graded and corrected."

While space did not permit the February 11 issue to make this point crystal clear, it was stated that "a student never knows when one of his papers will be chosen for grading." This sentence certainly permits the interpretation that we approved the correction of a sample of each student's work—not all the work of a few students. Since Professor Howell's own chairman, Willard Thorp, was a member of the consultative committee, good reading would credit the committee with good sense.

None of us—certainly not Herman Ward—embraced the idea of a "quality control" sample with enthusiasm, since we know that students like the teacher to see all their work. But doubling the amount of writing after the tax rate and school budget for the year have already been set requires some such time-saving idea if the already overworked teachers are not to collapse.

Even a vastly increased budget will not help very much. There will be half again as many students in high school in 1965 as there were in 1958, and double that number by 1970. The number of English majors in college should have increased at least 50% by now, and doubled by 1965, to maintain even the present shocking levels of class size. Instead, the number and percent of English majors have actually decreased. We shall not create new English teachers where none exist simply by laying off the booze, as one sentence in Professor Howell's letter suggests.

For a better solution to the problem of class size, I suggest that TOWN TOPICS look into what the Township schools are doing in grades 7-8.

PAUL B. DIEDERICH
Educational Testing Service

Stroup Replies to Howell.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We read with considerable interest Prof. Howell's letter of last week and would like to thank him for his kind words about our attempts to improve reading and writing at Princeton High School. We are grateful that the citizens of Princeton are interested in our schools and in our programs to improve the education of our young people.

Public and private schools throughout the country are making intensive studies of their English offerings. Since September 1960 we have been examining our English program carefully. This has led us to trying various teaching methods in order to meet the demands of the colleges and the community. Some of these methods are frankly experimental. They may not prove ideal, but at least we are not "sitting on our hands."

The sampling technique is an experimental approach to the problem of giving students more practice in writing. As such it will be evaluated.

The Hayes Study at Sudbury, Mass. and the Rutgers Plan presently in effect at Detroit, Mich., both suggest the validity of our exploring the sampling approach and other methods for increasing the volume of writing. Presently at the High School we have a minimum of eight pieces of writing every six weeks in our college preparatory classes.

Of these eight papers, two are selected at random by the teacher during the marking period and receive grades. From the remaining six that received no grade, the student selects one paper (his best, in his judgment) and submits it for a grade. The papers which do not receive grades are intelligently used by the teacher for class discussions and class correction of errors.

We should like to extend a cordial invitation to Prof. Howell, or any other citizen, to visit our high school so that he may have a better understanding of what we are attempting to do and how we are going about it.

Finally, we should like to thank Prof. Howell for focusing the community's attention on a key problem; namely, teacher class load—a problem which the Board of Education and school administration are presently studying. If, as a result of our study and experimentation, a reduced teacher load in the field of English and in other areas is indicated, we believe that our community would support such action or any other approach which promised to improve the quality of instruction and thus continue to raise the achievement level of our students.

BIRTH LIST

Hospital Has 13 Arrivals. A total of 13 children, including nine boys was born to area residents in Princeton Hospital last week. Sons were born to Mr and Mrs Charles E. Taft, Mill Road, Cranbury, and Mr and Mrs Norman Nuding, 44 Alexander Street, both on February 11.

AUTHOR IS HONORED

For College History. Miss Florence M. Read, 22 Morven Place, president emeritus of Spelman College, was guest of honor at a tea given Wednesday at the YWCA in recognition of the publication of her books, "The Story of Spelman College."

The book, published by the Princeton University Press, describes the founding and growth of Spelman in Atlanta, the first college for Negro women in the United States. Through an anonymous donor, copies of Miss Read's book are available in Princeton schools and the public library. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Henry D. Smyth, Mrs. David H. McAlpin and Mrs. Howard B. Waxwood Jr.

MRS. AHRENS NAMED

As Welfare Director. Mrs. John H. Ahrens has been appointed Acting Director of Welfare for the Borough, succeeding Mrs. Alice Schannel.

For the past 15 years, Mrs. Schannel has served as both Welfare Director and clerk to the Magistrate's Court, but a recent directive from the state Supreme Court requires that separate persons hold these two positions. Mrs Schannel chose to serve as clerk to the Magistrate's Court and to relinquish her duties in the welfare department.

Mrs. Ahrens will be in her Borough office every morning, Monday through Friday.

CLUB GIVES $100

For Retarded Children. The Woman's Club of Princeton has given $100 to the Mercer Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children. The money is to be used for research into the causes of retardation.

Mrs. Lewis B. Headrick, chairman of community affairs for the club, presented the check to Mrs. James Gutzwiler, president of the Mercer Unit. The club is also sponsoring a party for retarded children to be held in Trenton in April.

SCOTIANS TO MEET

At Odd Fellows Hall. Thistle Lodge 220, Daughters of Scotia, will meet this Friday at the Odd Fellows Hall, 23½ Witherspoon Street.

Chief Daughter Mrs. Mary McDowall is in charge of refreshments. A tea was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Stanley Pazdan for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

Drivers convicted for speeding are: Kenneth L. Osthein, 40, 229 Shady Brook Lane; Gretchen V. Sander, 31, 390 Road; Raymond R. Shreeve, 27, Forestal Research Center; Joseph J. Stemmle, 58, 142 Moore Street; Martin L. Caples, 24, Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction; Harry Nilsen, 23, Griggstown Road; and Neville A. Black, 33, Graduate College. All received 30-day suspensions.

Point victims were Ronald Vannote, 25, 9 Charlton Street, who lost his license for three months; Clarence DiDonato, 20, 27 Harris Road, four months; and Stanley C. Gill, 19, Sky View Drive, Hopewell, one month.

Mrs. Perkins Honored

Mr and Mrs. David M Ludlum have established book funds at the Public Library, the Riverside School and Miss Chapin's School in honor of Mrs Courtland D Perkins for her courageous rescue of their son, David, on January 7 from drowning. Other sons of the Ludlums are enrolled in those schools.

The Book Fund at the Public Library amounts to $100 a year. It will furnish subscriptions to two publications, "Horizon" and "American Heritage," and other books to be selected by the Library. This enrichment of the book stock at the Library will be a lasting tribute to Mrs. Perkins.

Mrs. Elderkin was a graduate of Vassar College and taught art and archaeology there for two years. She held a Ph.D. from Harvard and had been a member of the board of trustees at Miss Fine's School.

J. Howard Dills, 95, of 50 Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, died February 15 in the El-Mar Nursing Home, Penns Neck. A retired realtor, he had served Hopewell as tax collector for 25 years.

Mr. Dills was a member of Hopewell Lodge 155, F. & AM. His wife, Mrs. Emma VanFleet Dills, is his only survivor.

The service was held in the Hopewell Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. John H. Ginter officiating. Burial was in Union Cemetery, Bingoes.

She is survived by her husband, Antonio Bozowski; two daughters, Mrs. Janet Hanna of Trenton and Miss Frances Bozowski of California; five sons, Anthony and John of Hightstown, Stanley of Lawrenceville, David of Robbinsville and Roger of Cranbury; a brother, John Clayton of Avon; and 13 grandchildren.

It's New To Us

wasn't introduced to us, ferns, laurel, pachysandra, pine. We also found an artichoke, a tomato, two oranges and a bunch of grapes left over from last season's wine pressing.

Incidentally, among its various containers The Coop has some splendid glass-bottomed pewter beer mugs and matching jiggers big enough to hold a martini, and small enough to hold an enchanting miniature arrangement. This is shiny pewter, by the way, treated against tarnishing.

We have left until last the masent of the shop, a white poodle whose broad back is the seat of a stool, and whose saucy white head makes a kind of handle for any child sitting on the back. He has four wooden legs, as befits a stool, with a white ruff around each ankle, as befits a poodle. The fur is a soft white acrilan—and the poodle has a collar of violets around his neck.

RIGHT OFF THE LINE

The Clothes Line, of Course.

Silks for home or abroad, travel resistant ensembles and reversible wrap-around skirts are the order at the Clothes Line on Palmer Square.

We start off with a travel suit, and we'll bet you do, too. The one we have in mind is a black and white gingham-Glen plaid combination with straight skirt belted with black patent and short-sleeved jacket with black trim.

The sleeveless white blouse is attached to the skirt by a horizontal zipper, so that all you have to do at the end of each sight-seeing day is to unzip the blouse, wash it, hang it to dry and then zip it back in the next day.

Other travel dresses are equally sea-worthy, including a prim cotton-rayon-silk you could wear anywhere. The shop suggests that you buy now for your summer vacation, because if you wait, these spring clothes which are so eminently practical for travel, will all be gone.

On the silk side, The Clothes Line has a light, clear blue with straight skirt, buttonless cardigan and sleeveless silk crepe bodice with a green, blue and purple print.

There is also a deep gold sheath (black, beige) with short sleeves, round neck and optional belt, and a black silk with white stitching.

About those wrap-around skirts. They come in good-natured shades of blue, lavender and cafe, and they are lined with forget-me-not print that matches the sleeveless blouse.

The Madras skirt of 1962 has big U-shaped straw pockets, one on each side. There is a batik wrap-around, too, also lined, and a drip-dry unlined skirt for digging garden weeds in.

If you're ready for a sundress (and who isn't?) look at Clothes Line's two-piecer in violet and blue seersucker stripes, or orange and gold stripes, cut with a rib-length jacket (no collar) over a spaghetti-strapped straight skirted dress.

The same fabrics have been used for a one-piece dress cut with double box pleats, shoestring belt and short-sleeved bodice. All right, so this isn't really a sun-dress; it is cheerful enough to qualify.

YALE SWIMMERS HERE

Saturday at 4:30. A swimming meet that will create more than unusual interest is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in Dillon Pool. Yale's strong team, off on another victory streak since its string of more than 100 was snapped last year by Navy, is favored to continue its mastery of Princeton, which has not topped the Blue since 1938.

The Tigers went to Cambridge last weekend with long-shot hopes of trimming Harvard but returned on the short end of a 57-38 score. Weakness in the sprints, which resulted in the loss of all five freestyle events, told the story.

Top Princeton entries will be Jed Graef, who added to his list of achievements Saturday by setting a Harvard pool record of 2:01.4 in the 200-yard backstroke, and Gardiner Green in the 200-yard breaststroke. The latter also came home with the Harvard pool record in his event — a fine 2:20.0.

The Tigers should get off on the right foot with a victory in the medley relay, and are also strong in the dive. Comparative times indicate that they may come closer to defeating Yale than they did Harvard, but it is wholly unlikely that they will have won the meet before the final 400-yard freestyle event.

Yale is a prohibitive favorite in that event, making it necessary for the Tigers to bank sufficient points before it comes along. All seats for the meet are reserved, and expectations were that they would be sold out well in advance.

Pee-Wees to the Garden

Princeton's Pee-Wee Hockey Team will have an experience many an older player never knows when it skates Sunday on Madison Square Garden ice.

Manager John Hernard has booked his squad for the first half of a double-header, with a combined team from Riverside-Greenwich providing the opposition. In the anticlimax, the New York Rangers' farm team from Guelph, Canada, will play the West German sextet which is in this country for the world hockey championships.

Pete Sampson will start in the goal for the Pee-Wees, with Hugh Sampson and Evan Donaldson on defense. The line will consist of Dave Sayen, Whit Raymond and Stu Kirkpatrick.

HOCKEY VS. CORNELL

Saturday at 3. A surprisingly strong Cornell hockey team will come to Baker Rink Saturday at 3 o'clock seeking revenge for a 4-3 overtime defeat it suffered last month at Princeton's hands. The one-time cellar-dwellers have moved steadily upward since reactivating the sport in the mid '50's, and would be in position to challenge Harvard seriously for the title had not the Tigers topped them at Ithaca.

Cornell holds a 2-1 victory over defending champion Harvard to its credit, has split with Yale and swept its series with Dartmouth and Brown. In three games with the latter two opponents this year, Princeton has yet to win.

The Tigers took a 1-0 lead over Harvard in the first 29 seconds of play Saturday before 2500 Alumni Day fans in Baker Rink, but could not add to their margin. Woefully short of defensive manpower, and unable to match the Crimson's depth in fielding three strong lines, Princeton did well to hold the final margin to 3-1.

As has been the case all season, a fine performance by goalie Billy Hill was largely responsible for paring the victors' total. The second Harvard goal, an unbelievable angle shot from the right by Gene Kinasewich, was fully earned, but defense lapses (faulty clearing and ineffective poke-checking) materially aided the first and third Crimson scores.

Yale's 8-5 victory over Dartmouth last weekend returned Princeton to last place in the standings. The Elis were due in town for a return contest Wednesday night, with a trip to Cambridge next Tuesday the final road game on the 1962 schedule.

QUINTET HEADS NORTH

As Season Nears End. Repeat games against the teams it handled easily here last weekend are on the schedule for the Princeton basketball team. The Tigers play Harvard Friday night and move on to Hanover to face Dartmouth Saturday. The Crimson was an 83-55 victim here, while Dartmouth was trounced, 97-54. Both contests provided evidence of how poor an Ivy League basketball team can be. The Indians have a sharpshooter in sophomore Steve Spahn, who is currently leading Pete Campbell by six points in the race for individual scoring honors, but are otherwise mediocre. Harvard has no one to catch the eye.

Coach Jake McCandless' quintet controlled both games from the early minutes, leading Dartmouth by 50-32 at the half and Harvard by 39-21. Even the Tiger reserves had matters their own way, taking part in a 23-to-2 scoring rout of the Indians in the closing minutes.

Princeton shot at 51 percent to subdue Dartmouth and was better than 40 percent against Harvard. Rebounding statistics were equally impressive, with 6-6 Al Kaemmerlen dominating the boards in both games.

Yale's victory over Cornell at New Haven puts the Elis in the driver's seat, particularly if they can repeat at Ithaca this weekend. If not, they are still the likely champions, because they finish at home against Dartmouth and Harvard while the Ithacans face Penn and Princeton on the road.

PHS TO END SEASON

State Tournament Ahead. The Princeton High School basketball team, currently 13-3, will end one of its most successful campaigns in several years next week. The Little Tigers will be host to South Brunswick Friday evening at 7 and play their final Tuesday at Hamilton at 6:30. Both teams were earlier victims of PHS this season.

A February 9th contest with Hunterdon Central, postponed because of the weather and rescheduled for Wednesday, has been cancelled. Scheduling conflicts engendered by post-season tournament play forced the action.

Princeton High's first round opponent in the Group 3 State NJSIAA post season tournament will be Lakewood. The two teams will meet Saturday evening, March 3, at 7 at Convention Hall in Asbury Park. The game will be the first of a double-header.

The Little Tigers' chances of getting by Lakewood will be excellent if they play as they did here against Peddie Friday. The manner in which the home team defeated the much taller and slightly favored Peddie invaders was the result of a fine piece of planning by PHS coach Tony Borzok and an equally masterful execution by the Blue and White players. The score was 61-55.

"I know how to beat this club," Borzok told his players, who had only two days to work on his plan. The final score does not indicate how sucressful Tony was in pulling off his Brink's job on Peddie. Down one point at the end of the quarter and ahead only by two at the half, PHS pulled away in the third and scored nine straight points at the start of the final period to lead by 15—53-38.

"We played control ball all the way," said Borzok. "They never expected it. We had their big boys talking to themselves. They were expecting us to run and to fast break but we held back and set up our plays. We called the right one today. This was a real good one to win."

Some fine play by George Tucker and Gil Fisher in the corner "who compensated for each other perfectly" enabled the home team to slide a man through Peddie's zone defense for layups. Chief victim of this manuvering was Peddie's 6'7" center, George Barber who fouled out in the third period. Even more harrassment for Barber came from John Bensinger (6'1½" PHS center, who took the play away from Barber under the boards and on two occasions beat him on a tap off.

Only five PHS players saw action. "It was an iron-man job," said Borzok, adding "Boy, what spirit on this club!" Once again George Tucker led the Blue and White attack with 24 points. Teammate Charlie Pemberton added 13 more and Gil Fisher came off the bench to score 12. He was filling in for Don Truesdall who was away visiting a college.

The victory was Princeton's 13th in 16 games. Coach John Brister's team, also seeking its 13th win, sustained its third loss instead.

Lawrenceville Falls. Lawrenceville, which Peddie had beaten easily twice this year, prove to be much tougher for Princeton to overcome last Wednesday at Lavino Field House. Using a shifting zone defense, the Larries held Tucker to three points in the first period to take a 13-to-11 lead. The visitors outscored Lawrenceville by five in the second canto and then matched them basket for basket in the second half to eke out a 63-60 victory.

RESOUNDING REBUILDING: Peddie players seem to be in awe of the rebounding of John Bensinger (41) and Charlie Pemberton (15), a major asset in Princeton High School's 61-55 victory Friday afternoon. (Staff Photo.)

FINALE WEDNESDAY

For Hun School Five. The Hun School basketball team will end a disappointing season Wednesday afternoon when it plays host to the George School quintet at the Princeton Seminary Gymnasium. The game will start at 3.

The Red and Black suffered its sixth straight defeat Friday, losing a 65-56 contest to Solebury on the Spartans' court in New Hope, Pa. For Hun, which had been plagued by poor shooting in previous outings, the game was a tough one to lose — especially since the team put on its best shooting display of the season, hitting for a fine 47 percent.

Hun lost this one by committing fouls at better than one per minute. A total of 42 violations, most of them for blocking and charging, was called against the Red and Black in 32 minutes of play. Solebury, 57-54 victim of Hun earlier in the season, made good on 25 of them. The losers were four for 13 at the charity line.

Three Hun starters had four personals charged to them by halftime. One bright spot occurred in the third quarter when Hun tied the score at 45-all on the play of its reserves. Co-captain Jim Byer hit for 12 field goals and 24 points to lead all Hun shooters. The defeat was Hun's ninth in 12 games.

HUN HONORS SAVIDGES

As Outstanding Athletes. The Hun School will honor its two most outstanding athletes this week with a Pete and Paul Savidge Weekend. Headmaster Paul B. Chesebro has announced that all classes on Saturday will be suspended.

The husky twin brothers from Lambertville have served as co-captains of the school's varsity football and wrestling teams this year. In addition, Pete captained the school's lacrosse team and Paul has been named a co-captain of the baseball nine.

Both will be favored to win titles at the state championship wrestling meet to be staged at Peddie Friday and Saturday. Each has been undefeated in ten dual meets this year. Undefeated in three years of enmpetition on the mats, Paul will be seeking his third state title in the heavyweight class; Pete, runner up for the past two seasons, will be trying to gain his first state crown in the 175-pound closs.

TO END SEASON

Larries Will Face Hill. After splitting two basketball games last week, the Lawrenceville quintet will travel to Pottstown, Pa., Saturday, to close out the season against The Hill School. The Red and Black will carry a 5-8 record into the contest.

The hockey team broke a seven-game winless streak last week by gaining a tie with the Hill School sextet, and was scheduled to end the season with a home contest against Trinity - Pawling. Wednesday. The swimming team will be host to the Eastern Interscholastic Swimming Championships this Friday and Saturday.

After losing a close one, 63-60, to Princeton High on Wednesday, the basketball squad came back to post a 70-51 decision over the Upsala Freshmen over the weekend. Mark Haley scored 10 points in the first quarter as the Larries took a 22-13 lead. He finished with the top point output of 24.

The hockey team lost its seventh in a row, 3-1, to the Princeton freshmen, with Dick Pershing scoring the only gnal for the losers. Earlier in the season, the Tiger team had posted a 12-0 win. On Saturday, the Larries came back to gain a 3-3 tie with The Hill School.

LEADERS WIDEN LEAD

In Industrial League. Educational Testing Service defeated Institute for Defense Analyses and Sannino A. C. won by default over RCA Astro last week to widen their lead in the YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League. Each has won seven and lost two.

In the third game played at the Princeton High School gymnasium, RCA Labs finally captured that elusive fifth victory, defeating winless Food Machinery and Chemical, 52 to 21. The Labmen have lost three. Jack Quinn led the victors with 16 points while Allen Volk and Bob Collender hit for seven each for FMC.

ETS had a big night against IDA which had won its last four consecutive games. Led by Clarence Gilbert and Al Meyers who hit for 16 points apiece, four players were in double figures for ETS. IDA was paced by Don Uhl's 12-point effort.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
ETS	7	2	.773
Sannino A. C.	7	2	.773
RCA Labs	5	3	.625
RCA Astro	4	4	.500
YMCA	4	4	.500
IDA	4	5	.444
FMC	0	8	.000

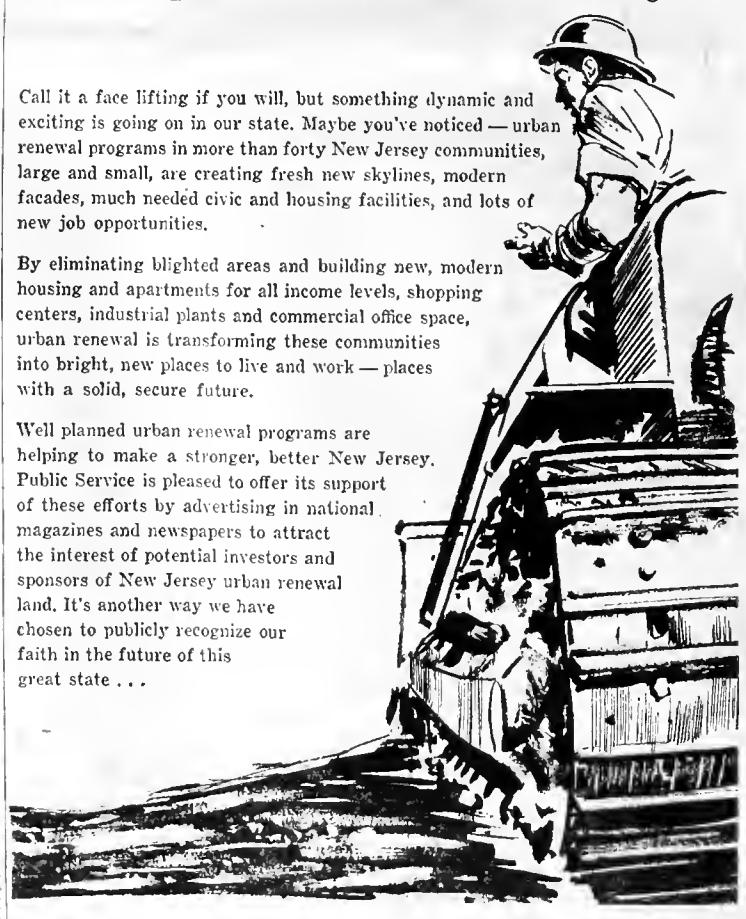
Do you know what Urban Renewal is doing for New Jersey?



Call it a face lifting if you will, but something dynamic and exciting is going on in our state. Maybe you've noticed — urban renewal programs in more than forty New Jersey communities, large and small, are creating fresh new skylines, modern facades, much needed civic and housing facilities, and lots of new job opportunities.

By eliminating blighted areas and building new, modern housing and apartments for all income levels, shopping centers, industrial plants and commercial office space, urban renewal is transforming these communities into bright, new places to live and work — places with a solid, secure future.

Well planned urban renewal programs are helping to make a stronger, better New Jersey. Public Service is pleased to offer its support of these efforts by advertising in national magazines and newspapers to attract the interest of potential investors and sponsors of New Jersey urban renewal land. It's another way we have chosen to publicly recognize our faith in the future of this great state . . .

Sports In Princeton

BOWLING NOTES

Edwards Increases Lead. Edwards Engraving (30) upped its lead to three games over Sportsmen No. 2 in the "B" League to highlight Princeton bowling action last week. Walker Gordon and Ivy Inn were tied for third place with 22 points each. In the "A" circuit, the Farmers maintained their lead of one game over K of C (22), with Yeoman's (20) in the third spot.

In Industrial loop play, Tiger Garage (15) moved into a slim half-game margin over Para Lah Supply, while the Crescents were third with 12 points. Accelerator (20) moved into first place in the Faculty circuit, a game ahead of PPL, and Princeton No. 1 (30) was on top of the Tri-County Fireman's League, four points in front of Hook and Ladder "H" and Rocky Hill, tied with 26 points each.

Nassau Del led the Women's League with 36 points, while Craft Cleaners and Conover Motors shared the runner-up spot, just a game off the pace. Swift's Diner was still in the race with 31 points. Helen Tamasi's 183 game was high for the week, while Marilyn Silvester added a 182.

Angelo Tamasi paced the men's games with a 241 in the "B" loop. Other notable scores included Nick Rossi, 221, Jack Lucey, 219; Mike Zeccola, 217, Joe Baldino, 214; Dick Edwards, 208-208; Harry Kahny, 206; and Val Ranallo, 201, in the "B" League; and Elmer Perantoni, 226, Walter Bell, 212; and Andy Drummond, 200, in the Industrial circuit.

Also, Jack Southard, 203; John Hamarich, 202; and Lars Christiansen and John Holler, 200 each, in the Faculty League; Carmine Panicaro, 212; George Kirby, 207; and Frank Stofko, 204, in the Fireman's circuit; and Dave Chamberlin, 224, Frank Sannino, 207; Joe Licari, 206; Al Hibbard, Al Perrine and Fred Procaccino, 204 each; and Nelson Smith, 201, in the "A" loop.

TUCKER HITS FOR 33

In PHS Defeat of Steinert. Collecting more than half his team's points, George Tucker hit for 12 field goals and nine fouls Tuesday as the Princeton High School basketball team defeated Steinert, 59-54, on the losers' court.

His 33-point output was the major factor in overcoming the 44-43 advantage which the home team took moments after the final round began. The Little Tigers held a 36-30 advantage at half-time but could net only seven points in the third quarter. Tucker then paced the winning rally, getting six of the 16 points that made victory possible.
